RE: Rockwell Collins to acquire Wilkins Weather parent company, AR Group

Dear valued client,

Wilkins Weather Technologies (WWT) is very pleased to announce that our parent company, AR Group, has signed an agreement with Rockwell Collins, Inc. (NYSE: COL) to acquire the AR Group, including Wilkins Weather Technologies, L.P.

As you know, WWT has been serving the Oil & Gas industry for over 30 years with a wide variety of global weather forecasting support services. Our sister company, Air Routing International, has been serving the aviation community for as many years providing flight support services to business aircraft. This acquisition will complement and broaden Rockwell Collins' current information management and aftermarket services offerings.

Our management and forecasting teams will continue to operate from our Houston, TX and Aberdeen, Scotland offices, providing the same level of personalized global weather support services you have come to expect from WWT. The WWT team will become part of the Rockwell Collins Commercial Systems business.

The WWT team looks forward to the next chapter in our long history of successfully servicing our valued customers.

Sincerely,
Richard B. Wilkins
President
